

AIMS OF THE FIELD

To provide a place for individuals and groups who share our vision and support our mission to meet

To organise social events where connections between groups can happen and new relationships can form

To have a specific but not exclusive aim to develop and support projects which use the theory and practice of the commons, mutual aid and mutual care

To serve as a space for autonomous education projects

To practice and support democratic forms of organising and community building which counter the hierarchies of capitalist society

To put in place processes which allow us to take care of our relationships with each other as members which can be put under strain when organising collectively

To grow a membership which actively contributes to and engages with a holistic vision and strategy for The Field

To develop and embed a cooperative culture among our members and in our community and to be a working example of cooperative society in action, and an inspiration for other projects like ours

To be an effective base for collective action against different forms of oppression, injustice and inequality, and to form alliances with other campaigns and collectives which work to these ends

To address issues of power and privilege in all its manifestations; not just in traditional institutions but in access to resources and relationships between people

To develop and support projects which provide a radical service provision in New Cross, which does not rely on an ethic of charity but on solidarity and mutual aid

AIMS OF THE FIELD

To provide a place for individuals and groups who share our vision and support our mission to meet

To practice and support democratic forms of organising and community building which counter the hierarchies of capitalist society

To organise social events where connections between groups can happen and new relationships can form

To be an effective base for collective action against different forms of oppression, injustice and inequality, and to form alliances with other campaigns and collectives which work to these ends

To develop and embed a cooperative culture among our members and in our community and to be a working example of cooperative society in action, and an inspiration for other projects like ours

To have a specific but not exclusive aim to develop and support projects which use the theory and practice of the commons, mutual aid and mutual care

To put in place processes which allow us to take care of our relationships with each other as members which can be put under strain when organising collectively

To address issues of power and privilege in all its manifestations; not just in traditional institutions but in access to resources and relationships between people

To grow a membership which actively contributes to and engages with a holistic vision and strategy for The Field

To serve as a space for autonomous education projects

To develop and support projects which provide a radical service provision in New Cross, which does not rely on an ethic of charity but on solidarity and mutual aid

 THE FIELD

385 QUEENS ROAD LONDON SE14 5HD thefieldnewcross@gmail.com